Homeopathic remedies need to melt on the gums so they should not be hidden in a treat or in food. Our dogs have a built-in pouch on the side of their mouth and the remedies can go right in there. Our dogs have a built-in pouch on the side of their mouth and the remedies can go right in there. Homeopathic remedies are capable of curing a plethora of dog illnesses. They are effective in reducing pain and relieving the symptoms of various diseases and that too, without causing any side effects. Homeopathic Vaccinations for Dogs. Homeopathic shots are given with less frequency than vaccinations in traditional veterinary care. The main goal of giving a homeopathic shot is to prevent illness that can arise from the vaccine itself. As an alternative to regular medical vaccinations, homeopathic nosodes are used. Almost all dog illnesses are amenable to homeopathic treatment. However, homeopathy for dogs is best used to treat chronic ailments - skin irritations, chronic gastric and intestinal disorders, asthma, allergies, arthritis, etc. Even in cases where curative treatment is not possible,...
